3,000 Automobile Deaths.
The Gay Night Clubs.
Switzerland on the Ocean.
Eskimo Alice's Baby.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1929, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

IN SEPTEMBER, according to the Hartford Insurance company, 2,000 were killed in automobile accidents, a new record. Bad whisky accounts for some killings, and "jay-walking," carelessness of pedestrians, accounts for many more.

Adults should know, children should be taught, that every highway is more dangerous than a railroad, automobiles being more numerous than trains, and just as dangerous.

Five young men went to the "Piccadilly" Night club in Newark, N. J. One quarreled at 4 a. m. with the owner, was hit in the eye. When his friends went to see about it a gunman appeared in the door.

"HOLD on, you wouldn't shoot any of us, would you?" Grant Patterson, 25 years old, asked the question. Four bullets in his body answered.

HE is dead, the gunman not identified, the night club still running, presumably. Forty couples dancing heard no shots.

In Detroit, night club windows were barred to keep out rum raiders, fire came, and many, kept in by the bars, died.

The whisky is worse than the gunmen or other risks at our gay night clubs, but "intelligent Americans" go, and will continue going.

IN OLD fashioned war, Switzerland relied on her mountains, her men, all trained soldiers able to use a rifle, and on the fact that it would cost more than it would be worth, to conquer her.

BUT now, with mountains, rivers, or water no longer a protecting barrier Switzerland ORDERS CAME HUNTING AND FIVE AIR PLANES. Men used to joke about the Swiss navy. But Switzerland is now on the shore, the air being the real ocean, and she means to have an air fleet.

Uncle Sam, take notice.

SPEAKING in Collier's Armistice Radio Hour on Sunday, General Mitchell, our most brilliant fighting officer in the big war, said, among other things: "Airplane can cross the Atlantic in 20 hours, the Pacific in less than 40 hours. In the big war battle ships appeared in two engagements, one lasting sixteen minutes. No ship was sunk. Our battle fleet never fired a shot, except in salute. New York could be destroyed in a morning by air torpedoes fired from a distance of hundreds of miles."

"WE LIVE," said General Mitchell, "in an era of bunk, special privilege and lobby control." That is all true, and the problem is to get results, by repetition, even in such an era.

TODAY, and never again, probably the world will hear of Alice, young Eskimo mother, name unknown.

She and her husband conducted to safety a party of white fliers, stranded in the Arctic.

The white men suffering great hardship, travelling on rough ice dangerously thin, were frost-bitten from nose to toes.

ALICE is sterner, as described by Richard Pearce, editor of the Northern Miner, of Toronto, one of the white men, "Alice, wife of the Eskimo with whom McAlpine, Baker and I were traveling, took her boy, 3 years old, after he had been tossed from the sled several times, stripped him naked, tied him on her back, under her clothing."

KEEPING her baby warm, next to her flesh, with the temperature 27 below zero, she "continued a man's share of the work, urging on the dogs, helping the sled over difficult spots."

When the ice broke and Alice fell through, she did not flounder, or get hysterical and vanish with her baby. She lay flat on her back until her husband rescued her.

The babe was all right, not frost-bitten.

CADET PAUL CAPRON, dismissed from West Point for marrying the colonel's daughter, is working as a reporter for Mr. Curley, editor of the New York Journal. In his new job, with Curley for a teacher, he will learn about the real world, more than West Point could teach in five years.

WEST POINT, forbidding cadets to own "dogs, horses, a mustache or a wife," should change the rule.

The strength of a man's emotions sometimes proves power in other directions.

FOR instance, a young English captain, Horatio Nelson, 21 years old, commanding the British frigate Albemarle, in the war against this country, fell desper-

Guests from a hotel next to the Safety Equipment Service company and residents in the apartment house were driven to the streets by the fire.

HOLLOW ROAD TO BE OPENED ON DECEMBER 3

Work Is Rushed On Youngstown Highway.

GRADING SLOW

Prepare for Concrete Pouring on Creek Span.

Last of the concrete on the California Hollow section of the Youngstown-East Liverpool highway was poured by the Urban Construction company, of Massillon, yesterday. The road, which has been closed to traffic since the latter part of July, will be opened December 3.

Contract for the improvement of this two-mile section was awarded by the state highway department to the McClain Construction company of Bellaire. Because of solid rock formations, which the contractors encountered in the grading, progress was slow. The McClain company sublet the concrete work to the Massillon firm in order to insure completion of the road before freezing weather.

The contractors have started work on six-foot berms on either side of the concrete. It is not likely that this part of the job will be completed this year.

Last of the concrete on the new span over Beaver creek at Fredricktown will be poured by John Hill, Aida contractor, about December 15, County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk announced.

Grading of the North Georgetown-Westville road is nearing completion. This road will be surfaced next year. The Valley-Salem road is also being graded, but this job will go over until 1930.

OHIOAN CALLS EDITOR, JUMPS TO HIS DEATH

Concert Manager Leaps Seven Floors In Columbus.

SKULL CRUSHED

Financial Difficulties Are Blamed in Suicide.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 13.—(INS)—"I'm going to jump!" This was the telephone message which Hershe Mowrey, managing editor of a local newspaper, received today from Joseph O'Leary, young concert manager.

O'Leary and Mowrey had been friends. O'Leary then said he had a "real story" for the headlines. Mowrey replied, "all right, Joe, I'll take care of the story." The newspaper man did not believe that O'Leary was serious.

O'Leary jumped. He was in his seventh-floor room in the Nell house, a large hotel here. His skull was fractured and many bones in his body were broken by the seven-story fall.

Body Found in Court. O'Leary promoted several concerts last season and was successful in bringing John McCormack to this city.

When he announced plans for this year's concert and opera season, the Columbus Better Business Bureau challenged him to make a statement as to his financial assets.

Financial difficulties are believed to have been the cause of his suicide.

The body was discovered when Mowrey informed Nell house officials of his conversation with O'Leary, who had jumped down into an open court.

O'Leary had been promoting concerts in this city for five years or more. He engaged in his first venture when he was 19 or 20 years of age.

This year he had planned a Galli Curci concert for October which did not take place.

The Columbus Better Business Bureau warned customers to investigate O'Leary's financial status before purchasing tickets for the opera season.

$3,472 RAISED BY SALVATION ARMY WORKERS

Relief Fund Drive to Continue Until Monday.

$12,000 IS GOAL

Mayor's Division Sets Pace With $2,089.75.

Approximately $3,472, representing less than 30 per cent of the $12,000 sought by the Salvation Army to meet relief requirements during 1930, was pledged in the 10-hour campaign, conducted by about 50 workers yesterday.

Drive to raise the remaining $8,528 will be continued until next Monday, campaign workers decided at a dinner in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A. last night.

Teams, making up Division A, led by Mayor Ralph C. Boodum and Municipal Court Clerk A. Earl Edwards, reported subscriptions totaling $2,089.75, while Division B, in charge of R. B. Stevenson and City Auditor William McGraw, collected $1,382.25.

Team Members Praised. "Under the circumstances all engaged in this campaign have done a significant piece of work," Attorney W. H. Vodrey, campaign chairman, said after the workers had submitted their reports. "You are to be congratulated for your efforts."

The team workers will meet at the Y. M. C. A. at 12:30 o'clock next Monday to submit final reports. New lists of prospective subscribers will be distributed from headquarters in the Y. M. C. A. from 1:45 to 2:15 o'clock daily.

Field Major Joseph Hughes, East Liverpool commandant, declared that one of the necessities of the present budget was $2,000 to be utilized in repairs to the citadel in West Third street.

"The basement of the structure is in exceedingly bad condition, so much so, that it handicaps greatly the work which we are attempting to do, particularly among the young folk of the community," he said. "But for this fact the budget would not be as high as formerly."

Need for Funds Stressed. Called upon by Chairman Vodrey.

Senator Caraway, Arkansas, Attacks Protectionist.

GRILLS WITNESS

Pennsylvanian Termed "Yellow" in Lobby Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—(INS)—The senate's lobby investigation got off to a blazing start today with Senator Caraway (D.) of Arkansas, the chairman, calling Joseph R. Grundy, the Pennsylvania protectionist, "a welcher" and "yellow."

Grundy was put on the witness stand again for a grilling on his previous testimony that southern and western senators came from "backyard states" and "should talk damn small" on tariff matters.

When Caraway endeavored to get Grundy today to elaborate on those statements, and to list the senators and the states that he considered "backward," the ruddy-cheeked Pennsylvanian refused to do so, and Caraway declared that he was "welching" and was "yellow."

Grundy Admits "Mistake." Still bland, but obviously in a different frame of mind, Grundy said reflection had brought him to the conclusion his previous testimony was a "mistake."

His appearance before the committee was brief and ended abruptly when Caraway bluntly "excused" him.

PLACE 'MIKES' IN OVERLAND MAIL PLANES

Engineers Develop New Transmitters.

Ship "Talks" 617 Miles to T. A. T. Airport.

NEW YORK—The development of a new radio transmitter for use aboard planes of the Transcontinental Air Transport, "Lindbergh" coast-to-coast air-line has been announced by J. V. Magee, vice president and general manager of the system.

Tests of the new transmitter have been carried on in scheduled operation for the past two months and the results are said to have been excellent. The longest test made, according to Henry W. Conner, Eastern Traffic Manager, provided a clear-way communication between a plane flying over the T. A. T. airport at Kingman, Ariz., and the T. A. T. radio station at Clovis, N. M., a distance of 617 miles.

Eliminate Troubles. The new transmitter has been designed to eliminate all the difficulties which have been found in commercial radio sets. It is an adoption of well known radio circuits and principles and is unique chiefly for its small size, slight weight and power radius. One of its unusual features is that it can be installed in the tail of the ship rather than in the passenger cabin. The weight of the transmitter complete including all controls and tubes, dynamotor, antenna and microphone is 87 pounds. The transmitter panel weighs only 30 pounds with the four tubes in place. The weights of former equipment used by the T. A. T. was 185 pounds.

The transmitter is mounted on a panel 12 inches by 27 inches and consists of four tubes connected in a master oscillator-power amplifier circuit of 100 watt output. An oscillator tube, power amplifier tube and modulator tube each of fifty watts and a microphone tube of 7.5 watts are used.

Only five connections are used to the transmitter: two high voltage connections from the dynamotor, two to the tube filaments from the ship's battery and one to the microphone.

The dynamotor, which has an output of 1,000 volts, and 4 amperes, takes its power from the 12 volt battery carried as regular equipment. A newly developed double voltage, engine driven generator will be installed shortly to furnish the 1,000 volt supply direct to the transmitter.

Trailing Antenna. A trailing wire antenna which can be let down and taken up on a reel operated from the pilot's cockpit is used for the transmitter and a special type of fairlead insulates the antenna from the metal skin of the ship. The antenna, when down, is weighted with a 2 1/2 pound attachment streamlined to offer the least wind resistance.

The microphone is of the army type, redesigned for hand use. Operation of a single switch throws the circuits from receiving to transmission, starting the dynamotor and the transmitter and sending current to the tube filaments. The opposite throw of the switch changes operations from transmission to receiving.

The receiver has a modified super heterodyne circuit with six tubes, three of which are of the screen grid type. The receiver is also located in the tail of the ship and controlled remotely from the cockpit. A five foot vertical antenna is used for receiving. In addition to normal transmission of messages from planes, the transmitter is also used for direction finding. The ground operator, each time he is in communication with a plane aloft, throws a dual loop antenna into the circuit and determines the plane's directional bearing from his station. The pilot, in each transmission, gives his geographical location, thus affording a double check of the plane's position.

British Malaya expects that its surplus of government funds of this year will reach $41,000,000.

He announced that the Rev. W. B. Ward, of Wellsville, will speak at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Millions For New Roads

Indicative of the change in sentiment on the all-important question of road building, Ohioans, in the recent election, voted tax levies which will provide $2,000,000 a year for highway improvements in 15 counties during the next five years.

Belmont, Carroll, Clermont, Clinton, Crawford, Gallia, Geauga, Guernsey, Harrison, Lake, Lawrence, Lucas, Miami, Morgan and Richland endorsed the "good roads" movement by sanctioning funds for furtherance of improvement programs. In each instance, the action will not mean any increase in the tax bill, for the vote merely authorized a continuation of levies now in effect.

On the other hand, 10 counties, voting from a pocketbook standpoint, rejected proposed continuation of road levies in order to bring about a reduction from one to two mills in taxes. Thus there will be a marked let-up in those counties, for the commissioners must depend wholly upon the small proportionate share of the gasoline tax for such purpose. The voters' action will decrease the road fund approximately $1,128,000 next year.

In other counties, by reason of the support from taxation, local roads are being extended into the rural sections and between community centers, thus following the program which has been virtually completed in Columbiana county.

This is a great forward step, no small part of the credit for which can be attributed to the increased use of the automobile which necessarily demands good roads.

Bootlegger Goes to School

One youth is in jail and two others are under suspicion as the result of a liquor raid conducted in a dormitory at the University of Michigan recently.

Incidents of this type are not new in modern collegiate traditions. The first one, perhaps, originated in the brain of some fiction writer, who decided that a student bootlegger would make an original subject for a story. The second incident may have been conceived by a student who read the story and decided the idea was too good to pass by.

It is too late to pass the buck to the novelist. But, college bootlegging in its present frequency, in addition to disgracing hundreds of offenders, is placing the American college in a bad light.

The undergraduate institution is supposed to afford the student four years of complete living. He may find special interests on the athletic field, on the forensic platform, in dramatics, or the laboratory, but somewhere at all times he should be able to find something to occupy his mind and body and keep him.

Few colleges are negligent in this respect. They are, however, frequently over-indulgent. The undergraduate is finding too much to do and lacking the balance necessary to consistently select that which will suit best, is frequently unable to meet the demands made upon his time and his pocketbook. Since it is only natural for him to want to do that which his fellows do, he may come to think of a fraternity as the answer to his demands for happiness, yet he does not possess the necessary funds to affiliate. Or, perhaps, a pleasure-loving co-ed is demanding more amusement than he can afford to provide. Unfortunately all such matters are declared to be personal—outside official jurisdiction. It is assumed that the college student, in his teens, is capable of always making wise decisions.

The intention is good, but the fact remains that the college of ten years ago, which demanded of the average student that he have one suit of clothes and the entrance fee, had little trouble with youths who tried to "work" their way through by earning his money painlessly.

When a person possesses the price of a theater ticket he is permitted to witness the same entertainment that his neighbor enjoys, even though the neighbor may have a bank account one hundred times the size of his own. The college might do well to sponsor a program of "general admission"—one show for all, one price and no chance to spend extra money. It would help the younger students to look at life sanely and would promulgate a peace of mind not easily ruffled by the temptations of seamy profits from bootlegging.

Fall and Doherty may disagree with a lot of the things that have been said about that $100,000 loan, but they agree that they chose an inopportune time for the transaction.

The folly of killing the goose that laid the golden egg might profitably be pointed out to the soviet chiefs who plan to murder all peasants refusing to give up their crops.

HASKIN LETTER DAILY

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 13.—At a time when old party lines have lost their clean cleavage there has become available for the first time in American history an authentic statement of reasons, other than party reasons, why a president of the United States has been elevated to that position. The statement is a clear indication of what the electorate expects of Herbert Hoover.

The Republican National Committee has taken a poll of persons whose names appear in Who's Who in America, this poll differing from the many others which were taken prior to the 1928 canvass in that, in addition to asking an expression of a preference as between the major candidates, it asked for specific reasons in support of such preference.

Thousands of replies were received, embodying hundreds of thousands of words of reasons. They cover a wide range but it has been possible to place them in sixteen classifications. The result is the most illuminating picture of the American electoral mind ever revealed in a campaign.

Probably the most astonishing result of this poll is the finding that the reasons given are not political in the ordinary sense at all. The idea of party is largely absent from the replies.

The reasons given by the voters for voting for Mr. Hoover for president are the reasons which an employer would give for hiring a particular man to work for him.

Character, that is, personal integrity, honesty, high ideals, leads all other reasons.

The second in rank may be regarded as largely political in this instance but also a controlling factor in the employing of a servant. It is sobriety. The prohibition issue, as such, doubtless contributed enormously to the result although many of the communications received indicate a differentiation between the personal sobriety of the candidate and the issue raised by the Eighteenth Amendment.

Third in rank stands the group of reasons arising from Mr. Hoover's world training, his international experience and familiarity with foreign peoples and governments. This result is of special interest in view of the fact that this international-mindedness would militate against him while others who opposed him counted upon his twenty years in other lands to defeat him. Campaign capital was made by his long absence from his native country and his suspected tendency to be too partial to other countries and peoples. This very foreign experience and understanding had precisely the opposite effect. It was regarded as a recommendation.

The fourth reason in rank was that Mr. Hoover is a keen executive and administrator who has had actual commercial experience in the world of business and might well be expected to conduct the federal establishment in accordance with sound business principles, as a nation comes to a large extent one of shopkeepers, desires.

The classification of reasons standing fifth is negative. Objection to Tammany influence in the White House is the basis of them, in most cases candidly and forcefully expressed, often with a touch of asperity.

Sixth in order comes Mr. Hoover's humanitarianism. His war work in Belgium, famine relief in Russia, Mississippi flood relief, and other works were cited and especially his sympathy with the cause of child health. He was declared to be the children's president.

The seventh group is one of special interest. Large numbers of voters gave as a reason for supporting Mr. Hoover the fact that he had had experience in serving the government of the United States. Reference was made in part to his war work as United States Food Administrator but more particularly to his service as secretary of commerce. The idea of a career president was strongly suggested.

Many interesting expressions accompanied advancement of the reason which makes up the group eighth in rank; the reason that Mr. Hoover is an engineer.

The religious issue, so heatedly discussed during the campaign, retires well into the background in the list of reasons for voting for Mr. Hoover. It is ninth in rank out of a total of sixteen groups of reasons, positive, negative, and general. The communications received showed numerous interesting trends of thought on this matter, many voters referring to the issue but declaring that they regarded the religion of the candidates as utterly immaterial.

Q. What are the proper hours for a bridge tea?
M. M. B.

A. A bridge tea is usually from two until five-thirty o'clock. At the conclusion of the game sand, wicks, tea, salad, with possibly mints and candy, are served. Usually, guests who could not come to play bridge, are asked to come in for tea.

Q. Is it true that France has no courts except military courts? A. H. N.

A. The ordinary judicial system of France consists of two classes of courts, civil and criminal courts, similar to those in other countries, and special courts including those dealing only with purely commercial cases. In addition there are administrative courts dealing with cases that come through acts of the administration, also the Tribunaux des Conflits whose function it is to decide which is the proper tribunal when an administrative and a judicial court both claim, or both refuse, to deal with a given case. There is also the Juge de Paix, similar to the American justices of the peace and the Court of Assizes, also the Cour de Cassation which is the highest tribunal.

What Do You Know About Religion?

There are almost two billion people in the world. Religion is one of the powerful, controlling factors in the lives of many of them. What are their religions? More than one-fourth are Christians. There are more than 200 Christian denominations in the United States. How many people belong to each? How many churches has each?

These and hundreds of other questions about religion are answered in a booklet prepared for distribution to readers of this newspaper. This 48-page publication, called "Religions of the World," will be mailed to any reader on receipt of ten cents.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—That haunting picturesque slice of lower Fifth Avenue running half a dozen blocks northward from Washington Arch, has tried desperately but hopelessly to retain the sprit of gloom of its antiquity. Nearly all the brown stone charms has been effaced by ornate apartments.

Its mellowness once suggested ruffled collars, four wheelers and spanking bays and the disintegration has been a blow to the denizens. The latest attack on architectural front is the effort to demolish and commercialize the red brick Mark Twain home at the eighth street corner of the avenue.

A bank recently leased the first two floors to convert them into one of those polished branches. The Washington Square Association, which tries to check the vanishing processes, rushed into court to battle for its preservation.

No matter who wins the unraveling of legal entanglements will require two years, so the home will remain intact for that period. The house stands with the same furnishings just as it did in the days when Twain spent final days writing in bed and puffing fierce black cigars.

The author loved the place, next to his old Hartford home, and of all it was where he spent charming interludes chatting with close friends and playing the game of billiards he enjoyed so much. The only indication it is his old home is the brass plaque on the side street wall.

This plaque bears the images of Washington Irving and Mark Twain. Irving spent pleasant days there at intervals and it is reputed one of the rooms was set aside solely for his use. The structure is now the property of an old New York family.

Directly across from the Twain home is another landmark, a melancholy reminder of the suave social graces of other days. This is the Hotel Berkeley, whose lobby in the hubbub suggests a daguerotype at a modern art exhibit. In the quick, rushing progress it clings passionately but with an aristocratic aura to the past.

New York's only Chinese undertaker is said to be one of the most famous wits among his transplanted countrymen. The Chinese always do things backwards and a wise cracking funeral director upholds the tradition.

Waffle parlor window card: "Waffles like you used to eat at home." One of these days some daring soul is going to rise up and scotch the myth of home cooking. Thousands — or to be sure, say, hundreds — all over the land never began to eat good food until they left home.

Up in the Bronx an auto greasing rack is called a Lubratorium. And on 23d street there is a Necktie Sanitarium. Adding quaintly: "We sanitize ties."

Few sections of New York show the building progress of the upper Bronx in the past few years. Acres, once tangled weeds and ash heaps, are now sprightly with business sections. Streets literally bloom over night. So big and varied are New York interests that not many below 125th street know of the amazing building operations northward.

On the other hand one of the most luxurious sections in town is that circling Woodlawn cemetery in the Bronx with its mournful array of monument works, funeral florists and glum groups of grave diggers.

Among monument inscriptions was this epitaph: "To Die Is Merely to Live in a Happier Land."

From a newspaper ad: "This film is a fantasy stirring romantic depths. Frail moonbeams weave a spell of passion. Eyes grow starry and voices sink in breathless whisper. It is not a picture but a rhapsody."

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

There is a "week" for this and for that. "Apple Week," "Clean-up Week,"—you know all about such weeks.

Last Spring there was observed the first of the "National Caring" weeks. It was devoted largely to the children and was intended to point out the significance of deafness as a handicap in child life.

It has been difficult to overcome the inertia of the public. Deafness has been accepted as inevitable. It is common to hear about deafness in children. "It will be outgrown." "It is useless to attempt a cure."

When we find out this defect is widespread, then it is we become alarmed about it. At the suggestion of the Bureau of Education of the U. S. Department of the Interior, certain surveys were undertaken to find out something approaching the facts. The report is astonishing and disconcerting. It shows that in the United States alone there are more than three millions of children who have impaired hearing.

Is this terrible?

Of course there are different degrees of deafness. It may be so slight as to be unsuspected by the child. But sooner or later it becomes a positive barrier to progress.

No one need be told what disadvantages are suffered by a deaf child. His education is affected, of course. Serious economic and social problems are created.

Deafness has a distressing effect upon the disposition. A deaf child becomes morose and retiring. He cannot hear his teacher. His contacts with other children are made difficult. He does not progress in school. He lags in his classes and pretty soon drops out of school.

But now his trouble has just started. Deafness is a dreadful handicap for one who must earn a living. Employment is hard to get and harder to keep.

Perhaps the best advice I can give in this brief article, is to advise that every child suspected of deafness be given a careful examination by somebody competent to determine exactly what is wrong. It is by neglect that the ailment grows serious. In its beginning it may well be that appropriate treatment will bring about full recovery.

Deafness is an embarrassment to the afflicted, to his family and as sociates. It should be overcome if possible. I am glad there are organizations like the Los Angeles League for the Hard of Hearing, organizations spreading information intended to help in the prevention and relief of deafness.

Other Editors Say

No Double Citizenship.

A statement issued by the Italian embassy in Washington indicates that, except in time of war, the Italian government will not find it necessary to consider for military duty citizens "residing in faraway countries; for instance, transoceanic countries." Such citizens may feel free, therefore, to present passports, "whether issued by Italian authorities or by the authorities of the countries where they were born," with the assurance that they will not be molested—in time of peace.

This does not seem to clear up the question of American citizenship in Italy. The point the United States must insist upon is that American citizenship is not of doubtful definition or privileges. An Italian who has become an American is not of double or of dubious nationality. His allegiance is not questionable and the direction of his obligatory service is not in doubt.

In peace or in war he has the same immunity from alien demand as is possessed by any other American citizen, and he has the same obligations to the United States. When he was granted citizenship there was a complete transfer of authority over him and of allegiance from him. The Italian government may exercise the right to exclude people from its territory. Nations ordinarily use a reasonable discretion even in this. But the assumption that an American citizen, once having acquired his new rights, can remain subject to alien control as the national of another country is wholly false.

The Italian statement does not seem to have touched anything pertinent to the question. It seems merely to say that the peace-time requirement of Italian military service can be satisfied without considering Italians in other lands, who are therefore free to enter Italy without fearing that they will be taken up for the army.—Chicago Tribune.

"Plain Kate."

Many an idea springs from a watching of Le Fairbanks and La Pickford storming through the tempestuous lines of "The Taming of the Shrew."

From the time Katherine's voice is first heard in raillery unbecoming so pretty a girl, till she sends her last dish crashing to earth, one wonders if Katherine was lucky or cursed to have been born and reared in a day when plain had temper was just that and not the intricate thing of faulty endocrines, dual personality, inhibitions, repressions and complexes that the modern world of mental science would have found in luscious abundance in lovely Kate.

The daughter of a rich man, famous through Christendom for her tantrums, Baptista's pretty girl would have about as much chance of dodging the modern day's gentlemen of mental science as a quinea pig has to escape his germs. Psychiatrists, alienists, psychoanalysts, neurologists, neuro-psychiatrists, all those who juggle man's and woman's tempers, would bombard the house of Baptista, offering their various cures, till Baptista in despair would either call the biggest fire hose in town or pay their fee, hoping somehow for the best.

If all else failed and some rare old Ming jar which Katherine threw in a temper, gouging out the butler's skull, should land her in the hoosegow, a rich Baptista could always find a Clarence Darrow to summon his array of erudite gentlemen of mental science, who would swear that Kate was insane when she threw the dish, and that it would be a crime against society to seat those pretty hips upon any too-hot chair.

Should one really envy the Kate who was merely accepted by layman and science as a pretty girl with a bad temper? A Kate who went her unamiable way till the right man came along, and miraculously cured her through the hard hand of love?

Or should one be sorry for a Kate who had to be cured so simply when, had she postponed her birth a few centuries, she could have had Freud and Jung and Adler agitating themselves about her?—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

In this they are wise, for others indulging in the same business would divide the profits so much there would be little in it for anyone.

Moran and Mack On Ceramic Bill

Haven't you often wondered just what Moran and Mack, the Two Black Crows, looked and acted like? Haven't you thought how much funnier they would be if you could see as well as hear them put on their hilarious record and radio sketches?

Now, you don't have to wonder any longer. Moran and Mack, the Two Black Crows, have made their first movie, an all talking Paramount picture called "Why Bring That Up?" in which they introduce many of their best selling record bits and a bevy of new funisms. It is the attraction at the Ceramic theater this week.

"Why Bring That Up?" is from an original story by Octavus Roy Cohen, famous author of negro stories. You see and hear how the famous team of Moran and Mack came to join up and start the famous "Two Black Crows" idea. You follow them along the path to fame with all its fun and adventures. You see them produce a lavish musical show in which they star. There's a girl mixed up in it too, she is Evelyn Brent, but neither one of them marries her in the end.

Miss Frederick In Human Story

"Evidence," the Warner Bros. and Vitaphone all-talking picture starring Pauline Frederick, now at the American theater, is a powerful argument against putting too much credence in circumstantial evidence when it involves a woman's honor, a man's happiness and a child's future. In it a situation is developed that seems to a lawyer husband inexcusable and inexplicable. It is neither, but he will not listen to explanation.

What Myra Stanhope was able to build out of her wrecked life when it eventually crosses the way of her child and her husband as well as her betrayer again, is the story that made "Evidence" the great international stage success of a few years back and now, with the transforming power of talking pictures, brings the dramatic denunciation of circumstantial evidence to the public with even greater force. Pauline Frederick, famous emotional actress of stage and screen is aided by a superb cast, including William Courtney, Conway Tearle, Lowell Sherman, Alec B. Francis, Freddie Burks, Frederick, Myrna Loy, Madeline Seymour, Lionel Belmore and Ivan Simpson. "Evidence" is based on the play of J. De Rocher MacPherson. J. Grubb Alexander did the scenario. John Adolphi directed.

Clara Bow Wins In Sales Girl Role

"A Saturday Night Kid" in department store parlance, is a girl who does not have a "ready" boy friend, but who manages to "grab off" dates with "swell gents" every Saturday evening.

Clara Bow is seen and heard in the title role of a play based on this type of character in "The Saturday Night Kid," now at the State theater.

The play is established on the doings of the boys and girls who work as sales persons and clerks in the big department stores of the metropolis. Miss Bow is a hard-working sales girl who is deeply in love with James Hall, clerk, who has ambitions to rise higher on the store's staff.

Clara's younger sister picks Hall for a winner in the battle for higher wages and success, and sets her own traps for her sister's "boy friend." Clara, unaware that her sister is working out a well-calculated intrigue, sees Hall's indifference and decides to go Democratic with her dates to bring him to his senses. But complications enter the field of activity. Clara's sister gets into a jam over money entrusted her by the store and heretic, if frenzied measures are called for to save the day. Miss Bow saves it and her own reputation at the same time in a series of thrilling sequences.

LABOR PEACE PACT PLANNED BY BUILDERS

Seek Tribunal to Ad-just Trades Dis-putes.

CALL MEETING Pittsburgh Conference To be Held This Month.

CHICAGO.—Losses to the amount of $30,000,000 are caused annually during jurisdictional squabbles in the American building industry, leaving on each occasion a sick pocketbook and worse headache. To eliminate this, building contractors from all sections of the country have decided to meet in Pittsburgh Nov. 18-19 to concoct what they hope will become a permanent remedy for their primary ailment.

The idea at present is to devise some sort of tribunal to adjust disputes between building trades and make its decisions stick without sticking the innocent as well as the guilty. The tribunal set up a few years ago for settling controversies was abolished when the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor voted to withdraw representation from its hearings.

Meeting is Planned. The Pittsburgh meeting was suggested by William J. Spencer, the secretary of the national trades department of the A. F. of L. He advised James J. Scully of the Boston Building Trades Employers' association that the recent Toronto labor convention had given the jurisdiction matter consideration and would be taken up by the incoming executive council at its meeting in Tampa, Fla., on Jan. 20, 1937.

Invitations bidding the country's builders a welcome to the Pittsburgh meeting have been mailed from here, the headquarters of National Association of Building Trades Employers. Large membership in this organization flourishes in New York, Chicago, Boston, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Denver, Hartford, Connecticut, Indianapolis, Jersey City, Kansas City, Omaha, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Seattle, St. Louis and Washington, D. C. Whatever plans are adopted at the Pittsburgh meeting will be submitted for final approval to the joint Tampa conference.

Edward M. Craig, executive secretary of the association, had this comment:

"The question of jurisdictional trade disputes in the building industry is of vital importance to all. Our difficulties are becoming more aggravated. The Building Trade Department of the American Federation of Labor realizes more fully now than ever that this is one of its most important problems. "Officials of the trades department realize there must be a court of adjustment of some kind set up if the construction industry is to prosper. And this court must be empowered with the proper authority."

In the opinion of Oscar W. Rosenthal, vice president of this association, the Pittsburgh call forecasts a new era of tranquility in the national building industry. He is certain that labor is fully aware of the jurisdictional menace and will cooperate with the builders for a complete elimination of them from the construction industry.

Five members of the flying squad have now been sent to Paris, according to the newspaper, in order to carry out sentences pronounced by the Teheka against Soviet officials who have "deserted the lineup."

Erving officials, unwilling to return to Moscow to stand trial, are either kidnapped or punished on the spot, the Novosti claims to be informed.

Hints of summary executions in various Soviet embassy cellars are further recalled by the Novosti, who also recalls the mysterious death in Austria of a Soviet diplomat who had "talked out of turn," after resigning from the party.

The members of the flying squad fill menial, clerical positions at the embassies to which they are assigned, so as to escape attention. They are unknown even to their fellow workers who ignore their quality of Teheka agents.

Besides this executive squad, each embassy also has attaches charged with espionage among the royalists, Russians, and with propaganda, says the Novosti.

And they can thank Dr. Serge Voronoff, famous grafter of monkey glands, if a statement attributed to him is correct.

Having solved the problem of renewing the vigor of elderly persons Dr. Voronoff is said to be experimenting on rams, bulls and simians with hope that he will be able to prolong human life to 150 years.

According to reports he bases this hope on a recent operation for rejuvenation on a Brazilian woman, aged 75, who shook off twenty years and still retains all the vigor and mental alacrity of middle age.

The European beauties elected for 1939 intend to forsake the Galveston contest. Instead of going to the Texan city, they will fight it out under the palms of sun-baked Rio de Janeiro in Brazil.

According to announcement, it is simply a case of Rio outbidding Galveston. The Brazilian newspaper A Noite has offered a prize of $20,000 for the world's prettiest woman. This is said to be ten times the amount given to the Galveston champion.

As was the case this year, twenty European nations will compete.

Two new double-quick cookies

Grandmother's Sugar Cookies

(Mixing time: 7 minutes)

Remember when you used to slip down the back cellar steps and "swipe" cookies like these from Grandmother's big cookie jar? She had to store them in the cellar to keep them soft and fresh. You can keep them handy anywhere because nowadays they're made with Crisco, a pure, sweet shortening which helps to make them fine flavored and moist—and keeps them so to the very last cookie.

1 cup Crisco ¼ cup thick, sour milk
1½ cups sugar ¼ teaspoon soda
2 eggs, beaten 3 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar and 1 teaspoon nutmeg)

Blend Crisco and sugar, add beaten eggs. Add sour milk with soda dissolved in it and stir in flour sifted with salt. Don't roll dough—drop by spoonfuls on Criscoed pan. Sprinkle with mixture of sugar and nutmeg. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) for 10 minutes. This makes 50 luscious cookies.

Soft Molasses Cookies

(Mixing time: 10 minutes)

A letter from a man in Ohio tells us that Crisco cookies were left all winter in a summer camp and when found this spring were "amazingly" fresh and sweet. There is something amazing about Crisco's pure sweet flavor and the way it lends its flavor and fresh keeping quality to foods.

1 cup Crisco 2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 cup brown sugar ½ teaspoon soda
2 eggs well beaten 1 cup hot coffee
1 cup molasses 1 cup hot coffee
4 cups flour 1 teaspoon vinegar
2 teaspoons ginger 1 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder

Blend sugar and Crisco, add well beaten eggs, molasses, spices and soda mixed with hot coffee. Then add vinegar and beat in the flour sifted with salt and baking powder. Stir well and drop from end of spoon onto Criscoed cookie sheet. Flatten with spatula dipped in water and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) for 10 minutes. This recipe makes about 65 cookies.

Taste Crisco's sweet, fresh flavor

YOU taste milk. You test eggs. Now taste Crisco—then any other shortening. Then you'll understand why Crisco's own sweet, fresh flavor so improves the taste of your cakes, pies, hot breads, cookies and fried foods.

These recipes have been tested and approved by cooking authorities. You will get best results by using level measurements and the ingredients specified.

CRISCO was used in the Cooking School recently conducted by this paper

Mrs. Frances Northercross, in the Review Cooking School, made a point of modern methods in cooking. Naturally, then, she used Crisco, the modern shortening. Not only is Crisco easy to use; in addition, it helps you secure better, surer results.

Crisco is the registered trade-mark of a shortening manufactured by The Procter & Gamble Co.

E. LIVERPOOL MAN RESCUED WHEN LAKE STEAMER SINKS

JOHN B. WEAVER SAVED AS NINE GO TO DEATH

Former Stable Boss
Tells Story of Crash.

17 OTHERS LIVE
Marquette Rammed
Freighter Senator
On Oct. 31.

John B. Weaver, 45, formerly of East Liverpool, is among 18 surviving members of the crew of the freighter Senator which sank in Lake Michigan, 25 miles off Port Washington, Wis., Thursday, October 31, following a crash with the iron ore freighter, Marquette, carrying nine men to death.

Weaver, a former stable boss for E. G. Sturgis, is today visiting at the home of his step-daughter, Mrs. A. B. Conkle. He is a son of the late John Weaver, bricklayer, and lived in Avondale street for many years before leaving here in 1911. He had been employed on the Senator four days when the ship was rammed and sunk while enroute from Milwaukee to Detroit with 258 Nash automobiles consigned for Buffalo.

Weaver boarded the boat on Sunday, October 27, as a coal passer. He was taking his shoes in the hold, before going on duty when the crash occurred. He ran to the deck above him and found the Senator out almost in two by the bow of the Marquette. Because of the heavy fog over the lake, the Senator, Weaver said, had been sounding its fog horn three times every minute. Members of the crew of the Senator claim that the Marquette either failed or did not sound its fog horn or it could not be heard. Three of the crew of the Marquette jumped to the deck of the Senator before it was separated from a circular life belt and jumped in to the water. A few minutes later the Senator sank, going down within about five minutes after the crash.

Because of the heavy fog, crew of the Marquette reported that they had been unable to locate the survivors in the water.

Woman Among Victims.
On the Senator were one woman and 25 men. The woman was Mrs. M. L. Gormley, wife of the cook.

Weaver rescued having seen Mrs. Gormley in the water after the boat went down, with her pet dog clamped in her arms. Captain George Kinch went down with his ship.

Weaver was tossed in the rough waters of the lake for an hour and 10 minutes before the fishing tug, Delos H. Smith, which had picked up the "S. O. S." message from the Senator, arrived. The crew of the tug picked up Weaver and 15 others up, but one of the number died from exposure after being taken aboard the boat.

The Delos H. Smith headed for Port Washington where the survivors were taken to a hotel and treated by a physician. They were given temporary clothing and the next day were taken to Milwaukee where each man was furnished with clothing.

They then returned to Detroit where they were paid off at the office of the company. Weaver received $135 less what had been spent for clothing at Port Washington and Milwaukee. The three members of the crew who jumped to the Marquette landed at Milwaukee.

Weaver worked as a car inspector for the Pennsylvania Railroad company at Beaver Falls, Pa., for 10 years after leaving East Liverpool. He then went to Detroit where he worked in automobile plants.

Calls Grundy 'Yellow'

ed him immediately after his refusal to name senators he thought should go to his group of "small talkers."

"I thought that," Caraway snapped, when Grundy told him he thought it would be "unbecoming" for him to name the senators.

"I thought you were going to turn yellow at the last."

The Pennsylvania man was interrupted in an explanation of his actions by a sharp "that's all; you're excused," from Caraway.

Words Stricken From Record.
After Grundy left the stand Caraway ordered his words stricken from the record.

"I don't want those words in the record," he said, "because I kind of like Mr. Grundy. I didn't think he would go through with this. He couldn't have lived through the criticism that would have resulted."

The Grundy inquiry was opened bluntly by the committee chairman.

"You know you agreed you would give us a list of your approved senators and the others. Are you ready to do that?"

"It would be entirely unbecoming to me as a private citizen interested in legislation to do that," Grundy replied.

"You made a positive, absolute promise—now do you wench on it?"

"On reflection, I weakened. I feel that I made a mistake, on reflection."

"Well, I want to know if you will wench?"

"I wouldn't want to call it that."

"I thought that. I thought you were going to turn yellow at the last."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

By W. S. Cousins.
NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(INS)—After an irregular opening in which nine out of ten of the active industrial and railroad stocks sold about a point lower on the average, the market made another desperate attempt to rally in the early trading today. Bullish forces rallied around U. S. Steel, American Can, Montgomery Ward and other substantial investment stocks, bidding up prices two to six points in the first period, but selling orders rained in over the market and the ticker admitted to a 21-minute decline at the end of the first hour.

Bankers and business heads attempted once again to point out the "sickness" in the stock market was due mostly to internal troubles rather than the effect of outside factors. Corporation reports indicate an unusually profitable year for 1929, even though business in some lines is tapering off. Money is plentiful, interest rates low and there is a good prospect of a further reduction this week in the reserve bank rediscount rate.

rey, Mrs. Hughes gave it as her opinion that the coming winter was certain to be a hard one. "Already we are beginning to have calls for aid," she said. "It is difficult to turn down any one asking for coal, shoes and other necessary things once bad weather really sets in."

Stock Prices Fall

tion and short selling, the Stock market displayed renewed weakness today, with the lowest prices in two years recorded for a hundred or more of the active shares.

Failure of the leaders to "hold" today, after the steady downward movements of the last few days, was extremely discouraging to the bulls, patiently waiting for a turn in the tide. The selling ranks have been swelled in the last day or two by the dumping in of stocks bought by "bargain hunters" after the first heavy break. Acting on the advice and example of prominent "names" these investors purchased stocks of whose real values they knew little or nothing, with disappointing results.

The downward procession carried with it the best of the blue chips and dividend-paying shares with long and successful records as money earners and profit-sharers. United States Steel fell away to 15 1/2, the lowest price of the year, and numerous popular industrials sold at the lowest prices of the last two to three years.

ately in love with a Canadian girl at Quebec.

Rules of the navy would not let him marry. He left his ship, told his brother officers he was leaving the navy and went ashore to marry the girl.

Friends followed, argued in vain, finally dragged him back to his ship by force and took him out to sea.

HE DID not marry the girl, but he did win the battle of Trafalgar, and the battle of the Nile, and he stands in bronze on his magnificent monument in Trafalgar Square. His body lies under a huge tomb, next to Wellington, beneath the dome of Saint Paul's. And the British admire him as the Chinese do Confucius.

THE power that cheated Bonaparte in the Mediterranean and probably saved England from Napoleon was part of the same power that made the young sea captain go ashore to marry.

The Canadian girl would not have interfered with his career. On the contrary, she would have prevented his later marriage to a woman he did not love, and might have prevented his making a fool of himself with Emma Hamilton, wasting years of his life, besides spoiling her's.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them, 15c, 30c, 60c.

GOTHAM CROWDS HAVE NEW GAME, AND POLICE HAVE NEW TROUBLE

Gloria Swanson Holds Up Traffic at Crossroads of World—42nd and Broadway.

By David P. Sontner. (Copyright, 1929, by International News Service.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—A crowd: Where good fellows (and bad ones) get together.

"New York is the city of crowds. There is no other city like it that way."

Says Police Inspector William Coleman, head of the New York Police Traffic Squad. He ought to know. Been herding them for a score of years.

"The biggest crowd I ever saw? No, it wasn't when Lindbergh came home," said Coleman. "It was in 1919 when the Twenty-seventh Division, New York's Own, came back from France."

"They were the first soldier boys home and when they paraded up Fifth avenue at least three million people went wild. They even fell off roofs. That was a crowd."

But there is a new game for crowds to play in the town which loves to look 'em over. It is the talking moving picture opening.

Since they put tonsils into the movies, the world premier of a picture on Broadway has developed into a cross between the opening of the opera and a regular theatrical first night—plus a three ring circus.

Searchlights play on the entrance, the lobby is emblazoned with klieg lights, the elite exit from limousines and fight their way through packed lanes of spectators who stretch right up to the ticket box.

During election week, the crowds which attended the gala openings of Gloria Swanson in "The Trespasser" and of Ronald Colman in "Condemned" was far larger than the throngs along Broadway on election night.

Gloria Swanson held up traffic at the crossroads of the world—Forty-second street and Broadway. The Rialto theater, where Miss Swanson made her vocal debut in the movies, overlooks Times square.

The screen star became the center of a pushing, milling mob when she entered the theater. Despite the best efforts of a squad of cops to protect her from the crowds, she lost the greater part of her corsage and left bits of her lovely tulle evening gown in the hands of the mob.

"That was the best mob scene that a movie camera ever shot," Gloria gasped as she finally got inside.

And speaking of gatherings, down in Park Row a disgruntled client shot and killed a patent attorney. An ambulance and police activity drew a noon-day crowd which grew like a snowball in an avalanche.

They stood across the street in City Hall park, climbed railings, poised on ash cans—looking upward at the offices where a policeman had located himself.

Within a half-hour, enterprising newspapers in the vicinity had rushed forth a special edition to hit the crowds. The "hustlers" pushed through yelling "Extra, extra, read all about de Park Row murder."

Did they do a rushing business? They did not. I watched closely. Nobody bought. A New York crowd doesn't care to learn what it's all about. All they want is just to look.

Tallest Teachers Tower Over Pupils

WAYNESBURG, Pa. — Greene county is claiming the two tallest public school teachers in the profession with the discovery that Paul R. Rutan, of Aleppo, is six feet five inches from toes to head and that Stacey Stephens, Bunkard township, comes within a half-inch of that height with six feet four and a half inches.

It is estimated in England that 70 per cent of industrial accidents could be avoided if more care were taken in factories.

A couple of new recruits, Blackburn and Chaney, of Toronto, along with Bell and Mundy, of Toronto, will join the squad for the workout sessions and will also appear in the lineup Sunday.

Blackburn and Chaney made their first appearance in the uniform of the Pros Sunday at Sharpville, while Bell has been a member of the squad for several weeks.

Last Sunday's game in the Pennsylvania city presented the spectacle of a good, big team against a good, little team. But, despite this fact and the fact that the Sharpville forces included a choice assortment of former college stars, the Pennsylvanians failed to negotiate any considerable yardage through the East Liverpool line.

Hall passes opened the way to the victors' pair of touchdowns. And the Sharpville management admitted that he had "loaded up" as a result of the Potters' showing against West View.

The Pros will be facing an undefeated team Sunday and, as a result, expect to work out several new plays and formations to be used in the week-end tilt.

BIFF JONES SLATED TO LEAVE

Coach Arnold HORWEEN of Harvard

Major CAVANAUGH - Fordham Mentor.

BIFF JONES
WEST POINT COACH-ARMY RULES FORCE HIM TO LEAVE AT THE END OF THIS SEASON.

For many years, head coaches have personified their football teams as generals do their armies. Not all coaches win such distinction, of course, but the great ones do. "Pop" Warner, personifies Stanford; Knute Rockne, Notre Dame; Alonzo Stagg, Chicago; "Bob" Zuppke, Illinois; and "Biff" Jones, West Point. Mention of the latter prompts thoughts on the transience of coaches for Capt. Jones is to be transferred to Fort Sill at the end of this season, resigning as the Army's coach. This change is not due to any fault with Biff's coaching. It is simply in accord with the military policy of transfers from post to post. Capt. Jones will be succeeded by his able assistant, Major Ralph Sasse, who played end for Army in brilliant fashion some years ago.

Unlike in the case of Biff Jones' resignation, most coaches are induced or forced to quit when they fail to produce winning teams. Early this season several were reputed to be on those "last year" skids and one or two have resigned already.

Major Frank W. Cavanaugh, for example, hard-boiled and keen-minded grid mentor of Fordham, was high on that "going" list prior to the Ram's surprising 26-0 defeat of New York University. Since then, the Maroon cry has been to "keep Cav," who in his third season with Fordham has produced a first-class grid outfit which is expected to reach its full power next season.

Arnold Horween at Harvard was also conspicuous on that "going" list until that 20-20 tie with Army revealed that this former star back was really a competent coach. Another victory over Yale and strong efforts will be made to retain him. Horween, however, is likely to bequeath his job next year to his friend and assistant, the famous Eddie Casey.

Enoch W. Bagshaw, for nine years coach at the University of Washington, resigned recently. He will leave his post at the end of this season. Repeated defeats, stirring student and alumni opposition, forced Bagshaw out.

Incidentally, it will be interesting to note what effect that Carnegie Foundation football report will have on the "going" list of coaches. That may result in some satirical situations, with some coaches being "fired" for not getting star players, while other meet a like fate for doing just that in old familiar fashion.

BOWLING COLUMN

Liberty "A" League.

Liberty bowling records crashed last night as the Golden Stars of the "A" circuit won two out of three from Kommel's Lunch.

Welch rolled up 621 for high three-game count, beating his own previous mark of 535. He also lined out a 242 for the Thanksgiving prize at the alleys.

The Stars aggregated 2,316 for a grand total which topped their own prior record of 2,283.

The Kommel quint shot an 880 in the second game and that surpassed the Golden Stars' mark of 832.

Welch, the Dairyman's sharp-shooter, is leading the league with an average of 177, which is a good many pins to be cracking every game.

American "B" League.

Flemings took three straight from Smith News last night in the American "B" circuit.

Sam Scraggs rolled up a 228 count in the second game and a score of 615 for three.

Bryan Motors and Litten Motors collide tonight.

Potters, Chester To Clash

Rivals Set for Battle Here Saturday.

DEFEAT laden though they may be, East Liverpool and Chester high school gridgers will take to the turf at Patterson field Saturday afternoon forgetful of all else that has happened this season, concentrating on the fact that they have a game on that day to play, a game between old athletic rivals and, consequently, a game deserving of every effort.

As a result, a battle which promises more than ordinary thrills looms as the Purple and Gold of the West Virginians mingles with the Blue and White of the Potters on the local lot.

Chester has failed to win a single game of the current campaign. The same can be said for the Potters although on several occasions they have run into close ones, such as the deadlock with Holy Name of Cleveland and the 7-6 loss at the hands of Toronto.

But that's all over. It's a matter of ancient history now, and efforts of both squads are centered on the approaching conflict.

Two more games are scheduled for the East Liverpool eleven after the Chester tilt. Youngstown East comes here Nov. 23 and the Zookmen go to Wellsview Thanksgiving.

Chester will have but one more engagement after their visit to East Liverpool. This they will fill with New Cumberland.

High School Reserves will scrimmage with the Golden Star Dairy eleven Thursday afternoon at Patterson Field.

Bulldog Coaches Stressing Passes

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 13.—Disappointed by the showing of the regulars so far this week, Yale's coaching staff announced today that two more days will be devoted to scrimmages. Passing will be stressed as the varsity failed to annoy the scrubs with its aerial game yesterday.

Princeton Plans To Use Air Attack

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 13.—Princeton apparently plans to take to the air in Saturday's game with Yale for the Tigers have been devoting most of their practice session to aerial work. Keene Fitzpatrick, trainer, announced today that Bill Moore would be in shape to take over his guard post against the Elis.

Purple Freshmen Puzzle Regulars

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 13.—Northwestern's freshman team, using the plays of Indiana, Saturday's fog puzzled Northwestern yesterday. The squad which worked against Ohio State last Saturday will be available against the Hoosiers.

Feels Irish Too Light For Jones Power Plays

Rockne Eleven, Playing Most Exacting Card Ever Conceived, Defying Destiny In Last Three Games.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Out where gently the surf rolls in from the lazy bosom of the Pacific, they are touting Southern California to come east to Chicago on Saturday and succeed where some of the good ones of the Big Ten, the east and the south have failed, namely, to beat one of the great Notre Dame teams. A great Notre Dame team is quite an institution, considering everything that has happened around South Bend during the last fifteen years, yet the man would be a sap who tried to parlay it through its final three games with Southern California, Northwestern and the Army.

Those aren't regulation three-foot-six-inch hurdles; they are pole vaulting standards. Notre Dame, playing out one of the most exciting scholastic ever conceived by the mind of man, obviously is defying destiny.

Coast Confident of Victory. The defy, according to coast warnings, will live no longer than Saturday. The coast, in fact, not only is touting

BAPTIST MEET ENDS TONIGHT

D. L. Moody and Claude Kelly Will Speak.

Final service of the series of revival meetings at the First Baptist church will be held by the congregation at 7:30 o'clock tonight when farewell messages will be given by D. L. Moody and Claude Kelly, the song leaders and soloists, who have been assisting the Rev. A. H. O'Brien for the last two weeks.

The Rev. Mr. O'Brien, the pastor, will speak briefly.

He spoke last night upon the theme, "The Shadow-life of Peter" in which he pointed out that shadows for good or bad emanated from all lives. He noted the good that had come throughout the years from the influence of Martin Luther, leader of the Reformation which later took the form of the organization of the Lutheran church, and of John Wesley whose activities brought about what has long been known as Methodism.

"My own conversion is due indirectly to John Wesley since my parents were Methodists," he observed.

WELLSVILLE COUNCIL VOTE RECOUNT ASKED BY PETERS

COURT ORDER REQUIRED, SAYS J. S. HILBERT

Election Board Chief Quotes Law in Dispute.

PETITION FILED

Grafton's One Vote Victory Prompts Action.

WELLSVILLE, O., Nov. 12.—As an aftermath of council's action last night in approving a petition presented by Second Ward Councilman Charles S. Peters, Republican, asking a recount of the votes cast in the recent election when he was defeated by John Grafton, Democrat by one vote, J. S. Hilbert, chief deputy of the Columbiana county board of deputy state supervisors of elections, today ruled a common pleas court order is necessary.

ment, made in answer to a request of newspaper men, quoted the following from section 5169.3 of the General code of the State of Ohio: "Such appeal shall be taken and filed with the clerk of the common pleas court of Columbiana county not later than 15 days from the declaration of the result of the election by the canvassing board, and the appeal shall be in the form of a relation addressed to the court, in which shall be set forth in brief and plain terms the reasons thereof; that the contestant believes that there is irregularity or error in the count, or that a mistake or fraud was committed by the election judges and clerks of said election; and that such error, mistake, irregularity or fraud changed the result of the election."

Bond Must Be Posted
"Upon the giving of such bond herein provided and after a prima facie case of fraud, mistake or error is shown by affidavit or otherwise the court shall immediately order the ballots of the precincts, wards, or townships in which the recount is demanded to be sent to the court in Lisbon, by such manner as such court may designate, and said court may appoint two master commissioners to help make said recount. Such commissioners shall receive three dollars each per day, and their actual traveling expenses when approved by the presiding judge of said court. The contestant and contestee shall each be entitled to appoint one inspector who shall be allowed to witness the recount."

Solicitor's Ruling.
Solicitor Raymond Knepper, after quoting a section of the state code which provides that council shall be the judge of the qualifications of its own members, explained that in making the recount council would have to establish its own method. He declared that the law was vague on the subject. He cited a similar case in Dayton where he said the common pleas court claimed it was without jurisdiction, which decision was reversed by the court of appeals. The case then went to the state supreme court which overruled the decision of the lower court and sent it back to council for determination.

Councilman W. B. Nicholson took the stand that the matter was beyond the jurisdiction of council and was one entirely to be handled by the Columbiana county board of elections.

Councilman Ted Swearingin inquired if council could delegate the task of recounting the ballots to disinterested parties outside of council and was told by Knepper that such a procedure would be illegal.

Upon roll call on the motion providing for a recount, all members voted in the affirmative except Peters, who took no part in the debate.

Charges in Petition
Peters based his petition on alleged irregularities in the conduct of the election in Precincts A and B of the Second ward.

IS HE HEIR TO HER ILLS?

Mrs. Ethelwynne Mertz, of Newark, radium poison victim, and her son, Edward, 6, to whom she fears she has transmitted the incurable malady. On his account she is one of the plaintiffs in a $500,000 suit against the United States Radium corporation.

ing judge in Precinct A ruled that a vote should be counted for Grafton that showed his name written in under the heading, "councilman-at-large." He also alleged that a qualified elector was denied the right to cast his ballot because the presiding judge of the same precinct claimed it was too late.

The third cause of complaint is that the ballots in Precinct B were counted instead of being placed in the disputed ballot envelope as required by law when there is a question of the legality of the same.

CITY SETTLES SCALES CASE

Authorizes Payment to Forbes Coal Company.

WELLSVILLE, O., Nov. 13.—Claim of James Forbes, Ninth street coal dealer, against the city for damages caused by the breaking of a scales when used by police in weighing a truck owned by a Pittsburgh transfer company, was settled last night with the passage of a resolution by council authorizing the payment of $250.

The truck, seized by the police on November 13, 1923, on the county bridge over Little Yellow creek, was taken to the Forbes yards to determine whether it was overloaded. When placed on the platform it crashed through and ruined the scales.

City Solicitor Raymond Knepper pointed out that while the city might not be legally obligated to meet the claim he believed it was a moral obligation to do so.

Councilman W. B. Nicholson stated that the officers acted in good faith and not maliciously and that he felt the city was obligated to meet the claim. Similar views were expressed by Councilman William Haugh.

Chief of Police John Fultz said that when one end of the truck was placed on the scales the latter collapsed.

Councilman Fred Lowary declared that he would never again record his vote favorably if such an event occurred in the future.

Defer Light Proposal.
During the discussion on the proposal to establish another five-way light, Councilman Richard Keay offered a suggestion that the wattage on the new bridge light be reduced and thus permit the installation of lights needed in other sections of the city.

Service-Safety Director George B. Imbrie said that there was only enough money on hand to place one new light at present and his suggestion that the matter be deferred until the first of the year when the new appropriation bill would become effective, was accepted by the members.

Lewis Trotter and Howard Leith, Tenth street, engaged in a verbal tilt from the floor during a discussion relative to a piece of property owned by the former which he said he was willing to deed to the city. Trotter claimed that the area was blocked last night by several posts. Leith in answering declared that "if the street was blocked it was done by Trotter himself." The matter was disposed of by adoption of motion instructing the street and light committee to view the premises and report at the next meeting.

Sewer Near Completion.
City Engineer R. J. Gill reported that work on the Seventeenth street sewer would probably be completed by the end of the week. Several inlets and catch basins are yet to be installed, he said.

Members of the street committee were instructed to view the property owned by George M. Aten near the mouth of the storm sewer in Crawford avenue with the view of purchasing same to take care of refuse material. Haugh, who said he sponsored a similar resolution in the past which was voted down, was recorded against the motion.

Councilman Nicholson called attention of the members to the condition of a sewer at Clark avenue and Twenty-third street. He said it could be lifted and rebuilt and thus afford relief to property holders who suffered by the water, particularly after a hard rain.

Nicholson also called attention to the bad condition of an alley running east from Fifteenth to Seventeenth street east of Aten avenue. Service-Safety Director Imbrie promised to give the matter immediate attention.

Will Renew Bank Nuts
Resolutions were adopted establishing a grade on the west line of Maple avenue; accepting endowments for repair and embellishment of lots in Spring Hill cemetery from Margaret W. Taylor in the amount of $500 and E. H. Riggs of East Liverpool, who set aside $300 for the same purpose, and for the renewal of a note held by the People's National bank for money borrowed in anticipation of collection of taxes for the improvement of Commerce street.

Ordinances passed under suspension of rules call for the special assessment for surfacing Commerce street from Ninth to Fifteenth street, the total amount being estimated at $10,446.75, and one providing a fine of from $10 to $50 for hauling tractors not equipped with rubber tires over improved streets of the city.

The ordinance committee was instructed to bring in a measure at the next session providing for the installation of small sections of sewer pipe which will be used when connections are made in the streets due to the installation of gas or water lines. The motion was sponsored by Nicholson.

The report of Mayor W. L. Fogo showing that $664 had been collected last month was approved.

Hon. Claude E. Tower, member of the lower house of the Pennsylvania legislature and president of the Chamber of Commerce of Monongahela City, Pa., was the principal speaker.

WOMAN PAYS FINE OF $100

Mrs. Susie Deligine, living near Silver switch, was fined $100 and costs last night on a charge of violating the prohibition law, when arraigned before W. L. Fogo.

She was arrested yesterday afternoon in her home by Chief of Police John Fultz and Patrolmen John Cole and Peter Dushman after a search of the premises revealed a quantity of wine.

She paid.

MRS. M'CREADY CLUB HOSTESS

Members of the Twentieth Century club will meet Friday afternoon with Mrs. G. F. McCreedy at her home in Main street. The session, scheduled for last week, was postponed owing to the district meeting of the Federated Women's clubs at Cadiz.

Thomas Dolby, 25, Second street, charged with using insulting language to a woman clerk in an up town restaurant on October 27 was fined $50 and costs and committed to the county jail last night by Mayor W. L. Fogo.

Dolby, who left the city after the occurrence, was arrested Monday night in East Liverpool by Patrolman James Haley.
